

The Carson Daily Appeal

CARSON CITY:

Saturday, July 20, 1873.

We witnessed a deplorable sight yesterday. It was that of an insane woman in a cell of the County Jail. We went to look at her at the request of Sheriff Swift. He held up a lighted candle and we looked in, and there we saw a negro woman, as naked as she came into the world, stuffing her mouth with the cotton from a mattress she had been lying on, now squinting upon the floor, now leaping like a wild beast upon her iron bed and rattling some chains fastened there, tearing about incessantly, glaring at vacancy in utter frenzy, and shrieking the shrieks of Bedlam. We never saw anybody half so mad before. She is a woman who was brought here, a slave, from one of the Southern States, by Mr. Williamson of Empire. She is married now and has two children. Her name is Hannah Tynes. Her husband is sometimes a cook and sometimes a laborer. She has been cooking for the inmates of the Carson Laundry, and this insanity is thought to have come upon her from being overworked. Possibly it is hysteria. She has a baby four months old; also, a little daughter three years of age or such a matter. Of course the baby is taken away from her for fear she would kill it. Indeed it was from fear of her violence to her children that her husband called on the Sheriff to arrest her. When Sheriff Swift went to take her in custody she grabbed a big carving knife and would have used it murderously only he was too quick for her. Dr. Allen was called in and they calmed her down with anodynes and she was drowsy last night. When she got quieted a little they got her a new mattress and some clothes and prepared her for a good rest. It is probable she will be examined to-day by the District Judge. Her children are cared for, temporarily.

CAPT. MEDER'S WINDMILL and the supply of water obtained thereby is one of the best lessons in hydraulics that has been afforded hereabouts. The Captain has dug a square trench at the corner of his fence and lined it with a wooden tank, and the flow of water into this, at the depth of ten feet, is enough to feed the pump which is worked by the windmill; and by means of a hose attached to this pump he gets all the water he requires for the irrigation of his garden. This is not a novelty by any means; but even a demonstration; but it is a very successful application of a principle and a very sensible employment of certain well known and much unheeded facts. Everybody knows that water can be had almost anywhere in the Great Basin for the digging; and nobody can help knowing that the wind is an ever-present and superabundant force. Captain Meder has merely utilized his share of this common stock of knowledge, and the result is complete success. Calling attention to these facts ought to be a sufficient hint to any intelligent man who is in dead earnest about wanting an unfailing summer supply of water under his own control for gardening and domestic purposes.

IT IS CONTEMPLATED, so we learn, by the Virginia Water Company, to tap their pipes at a convenient point, with a feeder for Carson—if they can receive enough encouragement here to make such an arrangement profitable. It is a fact, as we suppose our readers know, that surveys have been made and are now making, looking to the carrying of the waters of Mariette Lake to Virginia City. To do this, of course it will be necessary to construct a strong aqueduct of iron pipes wherewith to carry the water down into the low-lands of the Washoe divide and thence again up to the altitude of Mount Davidson. Should this project be carried through, and the water brought into Carson, the supply would be a very welcome accession, for so much of a fall would be obtained as to make it possible to force the water to any level desired—and the present somewhat limited supply would be doubled.

THE TESTIMONY in the great, long mineral-non-mineral case has been, all taken, and the case is now to be submitted to the officers of the Land Office—both sides having given a certain number of days in which to file their arguments. Of course the decision given here will have to go to Washington for revision and confirmation or rejection there. It is a pretty bad case and it is not probable that it will be decided short of six or eight months or more. Woods and his associates have done some pretty hard fighting in this case, but when it comes right down to watchful, earnest, unrelenting professional toil General Edwards has discounted the whole outfit. We don't care a flip of a button about the merits of the matter, but this opinion about Edwards we are very sure will be shared by each and all of the gentlemen employed upon the opposite side as well as his associates and the officer presiding, Judge Waitz. Edwards has worked like a Turk.

U. S. MINT.—Thirteen hundred and twelve pounds of mixed bullion, gold and silver, was received yesterday at the Carson Mint, sent down from the Crown Point mine for melting and assay. Large deposits of silver bullion are being received daily to be coined into trade dollars.

A DETACHMENT OF SOLDIERS came this way yesterday destined for Fort Independence, Mono county, Cal. The squad consisted of an artillery officer, Lieutenant Arthur Morris by name, a member of the medical staff whose name we did not learn, and sixteen private soldiers, one of whom got so far towards accomplishing his intention to desert that he got out of his uniform and into citizens' togs before he was discovered and put into the county jail for safe keeping. One of the men whom we found engaged in a game of cards with two Pinte Indians told us that they belonged to D Company, 12th Infantry and that they had just come up from Angel Island. Wilson & Kersey shipped them all off to Independence last night.

AN EPISCOPAL PARTY will be given, with all the attractive variations, at Moore & Parker's Hall on the coming Tuesday evening—the 29th inst. The news of this has just come upon us and taken us by surprise and we cannot, for that reason, expect to address ourselves to the subject as eloquently as if we had had time for preparation. However, we shall study the subject and enlarge upon it as in duty bound, between now and Tuesday night. We will say this by way of a peroration: There will be dancing interspersed with cake and ice cream.

UNCLE SID, BUCKINGHAM, one of the old timers of Marysville days and the earlier centuries of Carson, beamed upon us yesterday. He must be amazing tough! He is at least seventy; and he just looks like a young fellow of forty. He still continues to be one of the pillars of the edifice in Governor Fall's Unionville establishment—has been skirmishing round amongst old haunts, for a month or so, in his quiet way, over in California. His friends were very glad to see him here.

MR. OTTO GREENHOOD, who is employed in the Mint at this place is a brother of Mr. Jules Greenwood who committed suicide in San Francisco night before last—being driven to desperation by sudden and heavy losses sustained in his business as a stock broker. Mr. Greenwood went to San Francisco last night to attend the funeral of his brother. There is much sympathy felt for him here.

A DEMON'S SPIRIT.—It will be remembered that Sampson, a ranchman on Duckwater, Nye county, killed a neighbor last year on account of his entering in the Land Office a piece of ground previously claimed by the former, but which lay outside of the extent allowed him by law. On the trial of the murderer, at Belmont, recently, the jury failed to agree, owing mainly to the fact that the principal witness had been induced to leave the country. We learn that Sampson is out on bail, and the first thing he did after getting home was to hire Indians to herd his cattle on the bay land of the poor woman who was made a widow by his blood-thirsty violence. It was estimated that the crop would yield about $200, and the intention of the neighbors was to save the hay for the benefit of the widow, she being too poor to do anything to the ranch herself, but this generous design has been thwarted by the vindictive conduct of Sampson, who seems to know as little about wisdom, justice and mercy, as he did before his incarceration.—Evening Sentinel, July 22.
